

Abstract

Introduction and Objectives: The research and application of research results are underpinning of the development of any country. In recent years, the overall growth in medical research in Iran had an ascendant trend. But in appropriate with this growth, it is not happen the health community promotion. considering the limited resources of country and urgent need to solve the problems of country with research, it is vital to be focus on knowledge translation.

Methods: the type of this study had been qualitative study. In terms of the time had been a cross sectional study and in terms of objectives was an applied study. The methods of this qualitative study included an extensive literature review and then with doing individual interviews with the experts of knowledge translation in university determined the obstacles of knowledge translation process in university and then analyse the findings.

Results: according to the findings of this study have been determined the challenges in the fields: communicational, cultural, functional organization of interest, functional of academic units, manpower and motivation, resources and infrastructure.

Conclusion: in this study determined that practical implementation of the knowledge translation process of science have great challenges and complexities solvable at the national level and at university level as well as the challenge related to culture of community.

Keywords: knowledge translation, knowledge transfer, knowledge production, knowledge, research question

Determining the challenges of knowledge translation In Kerman University of Medical Sciences and Provide Corrective solutions

A Thesis Presented to The Graduate Studies

By

Roohallah fatemianzadeh

In Partial Fulfillment of the Requirements for the Degree Master of Arts in:

Health Services Mangement

Kerman University of Medical Sciences
March 2013